SETTLEMENT IS REPORTED IN STRIKE AT CANTON

Merchants And Sun Reach Terms, Report

TO PAY $500,000

Seized Arms Will Be Turned Over By Government

(Eastern News Agency)

Canton, August 29.—Despite the tendency of the general strike here to grow from bad to worse, the trouble was apparently brought to an end today on the following conditions.

(1) That all the mercenary troops shall be withdrawn from the City of Canton.

(2) That the merchants shall open their shops as from the 30th instant.

(3) That Chan Lim-pak shall issue a circular telegram, apologising to Dr. Sun Yat-sen and announcing that he will in future support Dr. Sun.

(4) The warrant issued by the Government for the arrest of Chan Lim-pak shall be cancelled.

(5) The Merchants' Volunteer Corps shall contribute half a million dollars to the Government.

(6) All the seized arms and ammunition shall be returned to the Merchants' Volunteer Corps.

In view of various complicated circumstances in connection with the circulation of notes of the Central Bank of Canton and the arms question, however, it is observed that it will take some time before the controversy between the strikers and the Government is completely settled.

ANTI-BOLSHEVIK TURNS INTO PRO WHILE ON TRIAL

Boris Savinkoff Admits He Was Mistaken; Given Death Sentence

(Reuter's Service)

Moscow, August 28.—The well-known anti-Bolshevik, M. Boris Savinkoff, was arrested on Russian territory on August 20 and is now being tried by the Supreme Military Court.

He is alleged to be the leading spirit in most of the counter-revolutionary plots in recent years, operating outside Russia.

(Reuter's Service)

Moscow, August 29.—M. Boris Savinkoff was today sentenced to death by the Supreme Military Court but recommended to mercy, in consequence of a remarkable statement, in which he said that he considered that in all his counter-revolutionary activities he had been mistaken. He recognised the justice of the revolution, and acknowledged that he was guilty of the charges made against him. He concluded by saying: "I recognise the power of the Soviet, and say that he who loves the Russian nation must recognise the Soviet Power. I do not ask for pity".

ARMS PROPOSAL

Americans Suggest New Plan To League

(Reuter's Service)

Berlin, August 28.—Late tonight, after the adjournment of the Reichstag, the Nationals and the Government Parties were negotiating to find a formula to enable the former to vote for the London Agreements.

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, August 29.—It is reported from Berlin that, as the price for withdrawing their opposition to the Dawes Bills, the German Nationalists will be given seats in the Cabinet.

Commenting on this report, the Quotidien says that it will be equivalent to selling the Republic. The Journal says that a Government comprising monarchists cannot be considered a guarantee of peace and that it would be much better to dissolve the Reichstag.

(BY UNITED PRESS)

Berlin, August 28.—The Reichstag has adjourned until Friday when it will take the final vote on the Dawes' plan and will also vote on the motion put forward by the Volks party declaring non-confidence in the Government.

It is reported that Herr Marx is confident that the Government will win, because the Nationalists are changing their viewpoint following conferences with the Government leaders.

CASE AGAINST WILSON WONG IS DISMISSED

M. Finklestein Loses Suit Of Alleged Fraud Of G. $9,750

The criminal proceedings raised by M. Finklestein of New York through his Shanghai agent Nathan Sachs, represented by Schuhl and Schoenfeld, were dismissed yesterday morning in the Mixed Court, the defendant being represented by Dr. H. C. Mei. The action involved an alleged fraud in obtaining G. $9,750 from the complainant through a shipment of hair nets in 1922 which turned out to be valueless.

The case has been heard and remanded several times on application of the complainant for leave to produce fresh evidence but he was unable to show any document in the transaction purporting to be signed by the defendant. Besides this latter's counsel was able by a mass of written evidence to establish incontrovertibly a complete alibi, inasmuch as during the half year embracing the period of the alleged transaction, defendant was either en route to America, in America or returning to China.

Messrs. Jacobs and Sung heard the case and at the conclusion of plaintiff's and defendant's testimony decided that there was nothing for the Court to do but to dismiss the charge and release the defendant.

A. G. STEPHEN, OF HONGKONG AND SHANGHAI BANK, IS DEAD

Dies In London As Result Of Heart Failure

LONG IN ORIENT

Served As Manager Here For Many Years

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Hongkong, August 29.—Mr. A. G. Stephen, Chief Manager of the Hongkong and Shanghai Banking Corporation, has died from heart failure in London.

Alexander Gordon Stephen, chief manager of the Hongkong and Shanghai Banking Corporation, who died in London Thursday, was one of the best-known figures in the Orient. His career with the bank institution of which he was the head, is a record of steady achievement, well-nigh unsurpassed in the world of finance.

Mr. Stephen, was born in Huntley, Aberdeenshire, 63 years ago and came to the Orient first in 1885. For a year he held junior positions in Bombay and Batavia, receiving his first appointment as accountant in the Hongkong and Shanghai Bank in Batavia at the close of 1896. His next promotion took him to Penang where he had charge of the office from 1902 to 1906. He went to Manila as acting manager of the branch there in 1906 and became full manager in 1907.

For five years Mr. Stephen was in charge of the Manila branch and his succeeding promotion brought him to Shanghai, first as acting manager then, in 1913, as full manager of the branch here. He went on his home leave to England in 1920 and when he returned to the Far East the following year the culmination of his career was reached, for he took over the chief managership of the Hongkong and Shanghai Bank which, with the growth of the port cities of the Orient, was then, as it is now, the foremost banking institution in the Far East.

CONSTABULARY LEADER WARNS RUMOR-MONGERS

Col. Lu Yung-Chien Urges All To Carry On Business As Usual

A proclamation calling upon residents of the Shanghai area to go about their business as usual and maintain peace and order has been issued by Col. Lu Yung-chien and posted throughout Chapei and Nantao.

In his proclamation, Col. Lu points to the reports of impending strife, but declares that it is his firm intention to see to it that order is maintained in the territory under his jurisdiction as chief of the Woosung and Shanghai Constabulary. He urges the population to carry on business as usual and not to be afraid of any disturbances.

With a view to preserving order, he says, he has arranged for special constabulary patrols in motor cars, on bicycles, mounted and on foot in order to assist the constables on point duty.

The proclamation warns that persons spreading false rumors will be arrested and severely punished.

TUCHUN CHI HAS SUPPORT OF WU, OFFICIAL SAYS

Strife Is Seen As Showdown Between Anfu Club And Chihli

THE CHINA PRESS received yesterday morning from a high official source in Nanking the following statement on the war situation:

"The situation in Nanking is now very tense. It seems now that war between the Chihli Party and Chekiang is unavoidable. The local authorities in Nanking are busily engaged in war preparations and they have already put a force of more than 40,000 men in the field. Peking and Yoyang are all in agreement with Marshal Chi Shih-yuan's action as as this is not merely a war between Kiangsu and Chekiang but a decisive battle between the Chihli Party and the Anfu Club. There is no doubt in my mind that the victory will come to Kiangsu Province as long as governor Chi can obtain the support of General Wu Pei-fu.

"The occupation of Shanghai by the Chekiang officials has caused constant trouble and frequent alarm in the form of war scares every few months. It is better now for them to suffer once and get it over with. There never will be any peace in China until the Shanghai question is settled. Moreover this war, if Kiangsu is successful, will provide the shortest possible step in the direction of the long-desired unification of China."

Leonard G. Husar Wins Suit For Damages Against Pacific Mail Steamship Co.

Judge Purdy Gives Judgment For G. $2,555 In Favor Of Attorney Injured By Deck Awning

In the U. S. Court for China yesterday Judge Milton D. Purdy gave judgment in the suit brought by Mr. Leonard G. Husar, United States District Attorney, against the U. S. Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corporation and the Pacific Mail Steamship Company, for damages to plaintiff while a passenger on the "President Lincoln" February 23, 1923.

Mr. Husar was bound for Shanghai when the accident occurred, having left San Francisco February 1. on February 3 he was playing medicine-ball with Dr. C. F. Pederson, the ship's surgeon, and another passenger, when he threw the ball upwards against an awning-spreader, which was dislodged from its fastening and fell on Mr. Husar's head, knocking him down and injuring him. The plaintiff contended in his suit that the defendants had carelessly constructed and erected an insecure, unsafe, defective, and dangerous awningspreader over the portion of the ship's deck which had been set apart by the defendants for the playing of athletic games by passengers, and failed to warm the plaintiff of the unsafe condition of this beam.

Judge Purdy, in his judgment, goes into the case very carefully and thoroughly. A very precise and detailed description is made of the deck, the awnings, and the beams supporting the awnings, also referred to as awning-spreaders. The whole structure is one presenting to the casual observer an appearance of security, and such an observer could not have readily detected that the awning-spreaders were not securely fastened.

The judgment quotes the description given by Dr. Pederson, the ship's doctor, of the accident:

"Mr. Husar, another cabin passenger and I were playing medicine-ball on the top deck, which consists of throwing the ball from one to another. We stood about ten feet apart and [illegible] Mr. Husar was throwing the ball to me. I believe he was somewhat blinded by the sun, because instead of throwing it at me he threw it at the awning-supporter, vertically upwards. It was rather a heavy ball, weighing about nine pounds and the force was sufficient to lift the awning-support from its socket. I saw the accident and I thought it was quite a little time between him throwing the ball and when the awning supporter fell. As a matter of fact I yelled to him to get out of the way. He did not seem to notice and was apparently blinded by the sun, because he stood there while the awning-supporter fell on his head. It knocked him down and I went over to him. I don't think he was at all unconscious, but he was merely stunned for a few seconds. He started to talk to me right afterwards."

Dr. Pederson described the injury as a laceration one inch above the right eye and about one and a quarter inches in length, not involving the bone. In treating the wound he had put in seven stitches, which on the fourth day were removed, the sixth day showing a perfect healing. Examined the scar before arriving at Shanghai, and found same decreasing in size and redness, and there was no tenderness. Some time in the fall of 1923, after returning to Shanghai, Mr. Husar commenced to have trouble with his eyes, and to suffer from headaches and spells of dizziness. As a result of medical examinations he submitted to an operation known as a "lumbar puncture," and claimed he was relieved somewhat by this.

During the trial, practically all the evidence bearing upon the

MERCHANTS TO RAISE FUND TO PURCHASE RICE

Aid For Poor Cantonese Is Planned At Meeting Of Association

In order to avert famine among the poor Cantonese in Shanghai who, because of the recent tremendous jump in the price of rice from $11 to $20 per picul due to the war scare, have been thrown into a panic, the Cantonese Merchants' Association, 129 Range Road, held a relief meeting yesterday. At the meeting it was voted to raise $50,000 by public subscription to buy enough rice from Wuhu to take care of the needs of poor Cantonese resident here.

Preparations were made at the meeting not only to raise this amount of money but also, if the sum of $50,000 should not be sufficient, to raise enough more to cover the needs of all the possible sufferers. The Association will charter boats that will run between Wuhu and Shanghai and carry the rice here to supply local needs.

DEFENCE OF WOOSUNG IS STRENGTHENED IN VIEW OF NAVAL ASSAULT

Entrance Guarded With Mines And Heavy Guns As Kiangwan Forces Are Transferred To Forts; Mukden's Agent Believes Chang Tso-lin Will Aid Chekiang By Entering Great Wall; War Plans Practically Complete

With the political atmosphere heavily charged with rumors of war which are strengthened by statements of the important personnel of the warring factions Shanghai and its immediately vicinity is facing the imminence of fighting with a restlessness seldom felt here. To say that the atmosphere is electrical is no exaggeration, for practically every one now realises that the slightest spark may ignite a conflagration which may set the Yangtse provinces afire.

Hurried troop transportation continued throughout yesterday along the Shanghai-Nanking and Shanghai-Hangchow-Ningpo Railways as well as the Shanghai-Woosung line. Refugees were pouring into the settlements from all three lines all day long. The trains along the Woosung line went only as far as Wan Tsao Pang due to the feverish preparations made in the neighborhood of the Woosung Forts.

Following the confirmation of the report that both Nanking and Fukien are sending naval units to bombard Woosung, the entrance to the harbor was heavily guarded by war vessels and mines were set at vantage points and over 100 extra guns were mounted at various places.

One of the most ironical features of the development yesterday was the drafting by Yang Hua-chan, the routed Fukien general, of a declaration which he intends to address to the Chekiang people shortly. In this message, he contends that being at the head of a force of National troops, he is entitled to a place in any part of the Republic. And since his stay in Chekiang has caused some misunderstanding both among the residents and the Kiangsu people, he will transfer his soldiers to Kiangsu territory in order to satisfy the Chekiang people and not to disappoint the Kiangsu authorities.

MUKDEN TO GIVE AID

General Yang Yu-hsin, Marshal Chang Tso-lin's envoy to Chekiang, who has been conferring with General Lu Yung-hsiang on the political situation in Hangchow, returned to Shanghai yesterday. Interviewed by newspapers, he stated that in the event of war between Chekiang and the Chihlities, the Mukden warlord is sure to take a hand in the affair, and will march his troops into the Shanhaikwan area to check the activities of General Wu Pei-fu. General Yang leaves for Mukden today by steamer.

Plans for relief work for the wounded in case of fighting have been completed by the local Chinese Red Cross Society under the direction of Dr. W. S. New. Units are being placed in Quinsan, Sunkiang, Liuho, Woosung, Kaoching, Soochow, Changchow, Wusih, Yihsin and the North and South stations of Shanghai.

A list of the commanders of the various forces and the administrative officials are being obtained from the local authorities by the society. In a telegram addressed to it yes-

IMPRESS WOMEN AS COOLIES AT SOOCHOW, CLAIM

(Eastern News Agency)

Soochow, August 29.—The commander of the 2nd Division has proceeded to Quinsan. Yesterday, a number of military aeroplanes arrived here. A native boat fully loaded with shrapnels and bombs, to be used by the aeroplanes, also arrived here under guard of eight armed soldiers.

As the troops are forcing the citizens here, regardless of sex, to go with them to the front as coolies, the public mind is greatly disturbed.

Summary Of The News

terday, General Chi Hsieh-yuan of Nanking promised to send the society a number of "safe-conduct passes" if war breaks out. In view of the importance of Soochow as a fighting pivot, four hospitals have been provided for Red Cross work.

The Kiangwan troops were transferred to Woosung yesterday. As a result, the residents, of the section began to flee to Shanghai in the afternoon. The Chinese Telegraph Administration yesterday refused to accept code telegrams.

Only about 2,000 piculs of rice arrived in Shanghai yesterday. Eight boat-loads of Changshu and Taicang rice arrived by Soochow Creek while seven boat-loads of Tungli and Sunkiang rice came by Whangpoo. The dealers refused to deliver much rice in view of the fact that the Chambers of Commerce yesterday limited the selling price to $15 per picul.

CHWANG AND YANG HERE

All forces under the command of Chwang Tse-ping and Yang Hua-chao have been sent to the Chekiang front at Wangtu and Quinsan, both commanding officers remaining in Shanghai for the present to receive final orders from General Ho Feng-lin, the local Defence Commissioner. Chwang is living in his own residence on Burkill Road while Yang is guest of General Ho at his Lunghua Yamen.

Throughout yesterday, these troops were busy digging trenches in Wangtu and Nansiang and mounting field guns in preparation for the coming operations. It is understood that General Chu Tung-feng is also coming to Shanghai at the head of 5,000 recruits by water and will proceed to the fighting zone immediately.

Kiangsu militarists say that Chi Hsieh-yuan plans to penetrate the Chekiang line of defence at four points:

1. From Quinsan, the four mixed brigade and the fifth brigade, under Generals Chen Tiao-yuan and Wu Hung-tsan will assault Woosung by land.

2. The division of General Chu Hsieh of Soochow will bombard Pingwan and Wushing.

3. The 74th regiment under Pei Pao-shan and the 19th division under Yang Chung-po will march on Lunhua by way of Lisho along the motor road between it and Shanghai. They will aim to fire upon the Lunghua Pagoda and create a commotion among the troops stationed there.

4. Admiral Tu Shih-kwei will steam six warships towards Ningpo and Sungkow and General Sun Chuan-fang of Fukien will march his forces from Yenping to Huichow, Anhui.

CHEKIANG'S ARMY

As to the organisation of the Chekiang Army, it is understood that:

1. Ho Feng-lin and Chu Shen-kwan, commander of the Woosung Forts, will meet the advance of Chen Tiao-yuan and Wu Heng-tsan.

2. Chen Yao-shan, commander of the fourth division, will ward off the attack of Chu Hsieh.

3. The mixed Brigade of Ho will face the march of Pei Pao-shan and Yang Chun-po.

4. The Commander of the Ningpo Troops, Wang Yu-shan, will take precautions against the fleet of Tu Shih-kwei.

5. Sun Chuan-fang of Fukien will be taken care of by Pan Kuo-kan, commander of the Chekiang troops of the first division and Chang Tsai-yang, commander of the second division will reinforce the first division if necessary. General Lu Yung-hsiang will remain in Hangchow to assume supreme command of the entire army.

(Eastern News Agency)

Foochow, August 29.—With the object of rendering assistance to the Kiangsu troops in their attack upon Chekiang, two Chinese men-of-war, including the Ying Jui, left here for Ningpo today. The remaining three warships, Hai Jung, Yung Chien and Chu Tung, are also making preparations to set out northward.

Peking Watching Attitude Of Chang

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, August 26.—Telegrams received in Peking overnight show that the situation in the Southeast is coming to a head. Considerable military activity is reported at Nanking, where the four Chinese cruisers and five torpedo boats are taking in coal, provisions and ammunition. By order of Marshal Chi Hsieh-yuan, junks, sampans and other Chinese craft are being commandered as military transports. A thousand soldiers left Nanking on the 25th instant on board sampans travelling down the river, while the 1st Mixed Brigade was getting ready to follow. The destination of these troops was kept strictly secret.

Detachments of General Chen Tiao-yuan's troops were arriving from Soochow on the 25th. General Chen, according to earlier telegrams, was to take over the post of Commandant at Nanking during the absence of the Nanking Commandant, who was going to the Chekiang front, where the 6th Division, Marshal Chi's best troops, had already gone.

Coolies over eighteen years of age were being pressed for service as carriers. The people of Nanking generally appeared to have no idea what was going on, and in fear of an attack on Nanking by General Lu Yung-hsiang were leaving the city.

No further news has been received from Foochow, and in the light of telegrams reporting activity from other centers, military experts in Peking incline to the view that a general attack on Chekiang is about to begin, and that this development result in Generals Sun Chuan-fang and Chow Yin-jen sinking their rivalry for the command at Foochow, in the face of more important issues. It is thought most probable that the Nanking troops are being sent to the vicinity of Shanghai to hold that important strategical point against forces favorable to General Lu Yung-hsiang.

The chief interest in Peking centers in the attitude of Marshal Chang Tso-lin, in the event of a clash at Chekiang, which now appears almost unavoidable. General Hsu Shu-tseng has recently been in Mukden and Chinese reports state that he has reached an agreement with Marshal Chang, whereby the latter would move troops to the south in the event of an attack on General Lu Yung-hsiang. The Chihli Party, however, points out that General Lu Yung-hsiang broke the peace by allowing Generals Tsang Chi-ping and Yang Hua-chao to take refuge in Chekiang after they had been defeated by the Chihli troops in Fukien and pursued through two provinces, and that this action was endorsed by the refugees being allowed to rearm and be re-equipped. In these circumstances foreign military experts are divided in opinion as to which side is responsible for the present position, but all seem to incline to the opinion that Marshal Chang will not remain inactive if the Chihli party attacks Chekiang, although the flooded areas in North China would be most unfavorable to military movements.

Many Coolies Are Seized At Yangchow

(China Press Correspondence)

Yangchow, Aug. 27.—For four days this city has been in trouble, and the clouds have not passed yet. On last Sunday afternoon it became known that no transportation facilities were available: all boats, both steam launches and other craft, had been engaged for transportation of troops, as the soldiers here were to be transferred to some other place.

On Monday the fact became known that men were being seized —impressed—for soldier duty; and all over the city squads of soldiers were proceeding, impressing all able-bodied men for the ranks, and even others as porters for the luggage etc. to be moved. The explanation given was that the number of men on the military payroll was far in excess of the actual number of soldiers; and in view of the move, and the impending roll-call, the number had to be made up, and made up quickly.

So while the impressing, in all something over a thousand men, was confined mostly to the coolie class, it was not exclusively so. Some of all classes are said to be included among those taken. A party of young men who had come to take the entrance examinations at a school, were taken.

At first, the seizures were made only from those on the streets; but on Monday night a house-to-house search was made, and all through the night, one could from time to time hear outbursts of wailing, as the men were taken. It is said that many of these unfortunates, so soon as the boats on which they were transported, reached the Yangtsze river, leaped overboard and were mostly drowned, though some reached shore and safety.

Today the streets are again full of people, but the shops are all closed, and in some respects the situation is worse than yesterday. This is in protest against the bringing in here of certain soldiers from the North. The city magistrate seems to be held responsible for permitting this, and the resentment is mainly against him. Yesterday in the Public Garden the magistrate was set upon by some women, and had his clothes torn, but was rescued from the mob. The northern soldiers are still coming in, and the propects are not agreeable.

Recently there have been fine rains, which have saved the farmers. The drought has been prolonged, but is now broken.

(Eastern News Agency)

Hankow, August 28.—Mr. Chou Chao-hsiung, secretary of the Presidential Office, arrived here yesterday by way of Loyang and immediately proceeded to Nanking after calling on General Hsiao Yao-nan, Tuchun of Hupeh. According to Mr. Chou, it appears that both Marshal Wu Pei-fu and General Hsiao Yao-nan are maintaining a very indifferent attitude regarding the Kiangsu-Chekiang issue.

Powers Combine In Warning To Taking

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, August 29.—With reference to the Chekiang-Kiangsu situation the British, United States, French and Japanese Ministers today sent a note to the Waichiaopu drawing attention to their Note of August 11, 1923, which was sent under similar circumstances, and saying that their Governments would hold the Chinese Government responsible in the event of losses by their nationals through fighting.

The British Legation has sent a separate note regarding the Shanghai-Nanking Railway.

Fear Bandits As Soldiers Move Out

(China Press Correspondent)

Haichow, August 20.—While there has been little news of war or preparations for war in the Shanghai papers, such preparations are much in evidence at this place. We have it on good authority that orders recently came from Nanking for General Pei Pao-shan and all his soldiers to leave at the earliest possible moment for the Yangtse Valley.

Immediately after these orders were received there was great activity at all the military camps. All the soldiers in this part of Kiangsu were mobilised at Haichow. General Pei left for Nanking and his men are following as fast as they can impress transportation. Even in ordinary times living quarters in Haichow are hard to get and at this extraordinary time, with many hundreds of soldiers coming in and demanding accommodations, there is not only inconvenience but much trouble. Soldiers just in from several days hard marching in the hot sun are not in a humor to trifle and if a place to sleep and something to eat are not given them, they go out and help themselves. Of course this leads to trouble and in the end it is not the soldier who comes out worsted.

Where the fighting is to be is not known here. We know, of course, that Hangchow and Nanking will oppose each other and that it will be, as usual, the North against the South. Also we appreciate the fact that Chang Tso-lin is shut up with all his men, by the floods in the North.

But the rank and file of these common people are entirely in the dark as to what the row is all about. They pay the bills in taxes, quarrels in which they always get the worst of it; they must provide the food, the transportation, the lodgings and the women. These facts are acutely borne in upon the people of Haichow and vicinity just now.

Meanwhile bandits have been growing bolder and bolder all summer. Floods have enabled them to hide easily and they are putting over many of their old tricks even now. With the soldiers gone they will certainly have a free hand and the country will again be under bandit rule.

The floods were very extensive and did tremendous damage but they came from Shantung, not from local rains. The latter have been very light this summer and now the crops are suffering from drought where the floods did not destroy them.

CHINESE IS SHOT AS OUTCOME OF GAMING DISPUTE

Suffering from a bullet wound in the left thigh, Tsan Kyi-liang was brought to St. Luke's Hospital late Thursday afternoon.

An investigation of the case was made by Detective Sub-Inspector MacDermott of Wayside Station. Under questioning, the victim told Sub-Inspector McDermott that the shooting had taken place shortly before he was brought to the hospital on Tongshan Road west of Chaufoong Road. His assailant, he said, was a man named "Siau Ningpo", and the attack resulted from a gambling quarel between the two men the day previous on Kashing Road.

Children Determine Own Destinies In Mixed Court Case

A couple of young children decided their own destinies, temporarily at least, in the Mixed Court yesterday when a case of larceny and adultery, their mother being a defendant, came up before Mr. Jacobs, American Assessor, and Magistrate Lah. The two accused, a woman of 33 and a man of 35, are charged on the complaint of the woman's husband, a merchant of Wusih, who alleges, in addition to adultery, that she took jewelry and clothing to a value of $3,000 when she left the house. The husband also demanded custody of the two children, whom she had taken away with her.

The woman admitted that she was the complainant's wife, but said he now kept a mistress, and refused to give his wife even $15 a month to live on. She denied intimacy with the other defendant in the case. The male defendant, on the stand, also denied it.

The two children, in Court, acknowledged the complainant as their father, but when told to go with him began to cry bitterly, and ran to their mother, who was in the dock. After consideration, the Court ordered that the children remain with their mother pending settlement of the case.

Papers are to be received from Wusih in connection with the case, and the Court ordered a remand, holding the accused in $200 bail each pending a dispatch from the Wusih authorities. If the woman is unable to find bail her children are to be permitted to go with her into the women's jail.

Canton Gunboat In Menacing Gesture;

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Shameen, August 29.—Dr. Sun Yat-sen's gunboat, the Wingfung, yesterday steamed up the river and cleared for action. This was probably in the nature of a demonstration. She then anchored off Shameen. The rumored threat to bombard Saikwan did not eventuate and the Wingfung returned to the Generalissimo's Headquarters the same afternoon.

No merchant volunteers have been in Saikwan. The department stores have not opened to business and the streets are barricaded. The strike situation is unchanged.

Mrs. O. M. Every year later dwellers up here are distressed by the sight and the cries of cast off cats. Most winters there has been a foreigner up here, who, out of mercy for these poor little beasts, has shot from five to six dying cats every season. This year there will be no one to put them out of the misery of death by starvation. Therefore people must remember their pets, and not leave them for "someone else to see to."

Accused Man Brings Charge Of Torture Against Constable

An ugly charge of torture was made against a Chinese police constable in the Mixed Court yesterday when a coolie acused of armed robbery appeared before Mr. Whitamore, British Assessor, and Magistrate Oen. The accused man had been convicted twice, but was now working steadily in a factory and leading an honest life. After a robbery in a cigarette shop on Ferry Road on August 13 a Chinese constable had come to his house and arrested him, accusing him of robbery, took him away in an automobile, and finally, the man alleges, took him to a temple and strung him up by the arms.

There was no evidence against the accused man, and an employee of the shop which was robbed failed to identify him. The Court dismissed the case.

Damagee In North Szechuen Road Row In British Court

A charge of assault was brought at the British Police Court yesterday, before Magistrate G. W. King, against Mr. P. A. Russell, the complainant being a Chinese by the name of Kao Yung-mow, the proprietor of the establishment at 1434 North Szechuen Road where the defendant is stopping.

As usual, there is a woman in the case. In fact, there are a couple of them, one being Mrs. Kao and the other being a woman friend of Mr. Russell. The plaintiff, who spent most of his time in the box in private conversations with an alleged interpreter in Japanese, said that the defendant had asked him to tell a certain woman that he had got a job and was making $450 a month. The complainant refused, whereupon his lodger had knocked him down and kicked him, adding insult to injury by various uncomplimentary references to his parentage, his birth, and his wife's character. There were witnesses to the fight and the abusive language, but they were afraid to appear.

Questioned by the Court, Kao said that the defendant owed him money, $239.30, for which he was bringing a civil action. This had nothing to do with the present case.

The defendant, on the stand, said he didn't know whether he had struck the defendant or not. There were so many of them he didn't know whom he hit. The trouble had begun when a woman friend of his had visited him Sunday, while he was out. Kao had mentioned her visit, and some foreigners there at the time had "kidded" him about it, and the complainant had made some slighting remark about the woman. Parenthetically, the defendant remarked that the house was in bad repute, and resorted to by low women.

Continuing, he said that the following evening he was telling a friend about the affair at dinner-time, and Kao came up and said he talked too much, flourishing his fist in defendant's face. The latter "pushed him away," and then the grand mixup began. Six or seven people, led by Mrs. Kao, led the charge. He hit the first man, who was probably the plaintiff, then the whole bunch landed on him, knocked him down, and hammered him.

Neither side produced any witnesses, and the Court pointed out that the evidence as to the nature of the fight was simply one man's word against another. The plaintiff had not proven his case, and the charge was dismissed.

Missionary Women From Threatened Zones Seek Safety In Settlement

Stories Of Vast Movements Of Troops Are Told By New Arrivals From Chekiang; Rice Lands Near Huchow Are Taken Over By Soldiery

While Chinese refugees continued to pour by the thousands yesterday and last night into the safety of Shanghai's International Settlement, reports of the widespread panic which drove them were brought by women from various missions who had also come to seek the protection of their countrymen.

From Nanking, behind General Chi's forces to Hangchow, the capital of his opponent, the general populace is reported fearful and trembling. Partly because of this unrest, as well as because of the possibilities of what actual warfare might bring, the mission women are congregating in Shanghai. Meanwhile the men stick at their posts with a general determination, as reported by Shanghai representatives of the various denominations, to stick tight and keep as quiet as possible.

A spell of quiet, broken by the shuffling of troops marching by night was reported by Mrs. J. H. Hendry, who arrived in Shanghai with her daughter, Mrs. Fegert, Miss Brinkley and three Chinese girls from Huchow, on Lake shore of Lake Taiho. All launches and boats on the lake, except a few belonging to foreigners, were reported by her to have been seized for military use.

Every night during the week she spent at home after her return from Mokanshan and before departure for Shanghai Mrs. Hendry said that Chekiang troops marched through on their way toward the western border of the province. Repores current in Huchow were that about 2,000 troops a night passed through.

TAKE RICE LANDS

West of Huchow the soldiers had requisitioned 200 mow of rice lands, for which the owners were paid $4 a mow or about one tenth of what Mrs. Hendry estimated might have been the value of the rice crop. The soldiers had cut off the crops and leveled the banks between the fields with the announced intent of making a landing field for airplanes. As yet none of the machines had arrived at the town and none had been seen flying overhead.

In order to make their way to Shanghai, the women were taken in a launch belonging to Union Hospital at Huchow to Kashing. On the way the main canals and highroads were seen to be practically deserted by the usually busy traffic. In the side canals the smaller craft were still playing about and the village people were still carrying on business until their section of the country should be filled with soldiers. At Kashing launches loaded with soldiers had in tow barges similarly loaded.

At Kashing, as at other stations on both railroad lines, pushing, swaying mobs imbued with a wildness never seen before by missionaries many years in the country besieged the gates to the tracks. Trains were jammed to capacity and still people strove to push wives or children onto clogged car platforms or to find riding place on the steps.

In some places foreigners were able to reach the trains only by the assistance of railroad officials and employes and friendly Chinese who went into the press of people as if into a football jam.

SOME WOMEN REMAIN

A number of women missionaries are still reported in the districts where troops are concentrating or where hostilities are threatened, but it is expected that the majority of them will seek to come to Shanghai within the next day or two. In a few cases, such as that of Dr. and Mrs. C. D. Lynch of Huchow, a wife is staying at the side of her husband and plans to do so all through the crisis. In the case mentioned two children of the family are also staying at home in expectation that no damage will be done at any of the missions.

Trains into Shanghai averaged from one to three hours late yesterday, though trains from here left on time. The delays on the Nanking line were said by railroad officials to be due to the heavy passenger traffic, an effect similar to big holiday crowds. The single track system brought the result that when one train was delayed it delayed those in the opposite direction which it could pass only at certain points, and indirectly those in the same direction are some hours behind. Some goods trains were being moved on this line, but no troop trains were reported to Shanghai.

Delays on the Hangchow line seemed to be similar in cause, though there seemed a more general impression that service in that direction might be cut down for military reasons. No more than the usual railroad guards were reported along this line except for about 5,000 Fukien "repel" troops camped in new pup tents some 15 miles this side of Hangchow.

The freight trains derailed on this line were still lying beside the tracks.

The crowd pouring into Shanghai have made the station a focal point for lines of ricshas, carriages and motor cars, coolies seeking loads and Chinese with accomodations at a price. Slipping from the concealment of this crowd into the family groups eddying out of the station the police have noted numbers of pickpockets of all sizes and ages, seeking to put the first touch of Shanghai upon the refugees.

Husar Wins Suit For Injury Damages

question of defendants' negligence, was directed to establishing the fact that the "fastener" of the awning-spreader at the ridge-pole was of improper construction and not in accordance with the best method used and employed by modern ship builders. In other words, that the type and design of this fastener was unsafe and dangerous "per se" and calculated to result in injury and harm to the passengers and crew of the ship on which it was used; that the defendants in adopting and making use of the device failed to use the care required of common carriers for the protection of their passengers. The plaintiff claimed that the defendants maintained this awning-spreader in its unsafe condition, though this condition was known to the plaintiff, and that he was invited to engage in playing medicine-ball underneath it without having been warned as to its condition.

The defense contended that the plaintiff had failed to establish a case of negligence, and cited various authorities. The judgment deals with the cases cited and points out that in none of them is the case a parallel one. In the first (the Loftus) case, when a child had fallen through an opening in the guard of a landing pontoon and drowned, and the New York Supreme Court found the ferry company not liable, the size of the opening was apparent and the structure was not intrinsically insecure. In the Husar case the structure was intrinsically insecure and this was not apparent.

The second (the Dugan) case was similar to the first case cited. The plaintiff had slipped under the gangway rail while jumping after his hat, fallen overboard, and was drowned. The railing was secure and the manner of construction was apparent.

In the third case cited, the Savage case, the libellant had fallen over a chain-box on the deck of a ship, an obstruction perfectly visible and obvious. In the Husar case the insecurity and danger of the awning-spreader was not to be readily detected.

The point was that the awning-structure presented an appearance of security. It was customary to keep this framework up in all kinds of weather, and the passengers had the right to rely upon its being secure, and had no reason to believe that danger was to be encountered by tossing about a medicine-ball underneath them. It was the plain duty of the defendants to either make the awning-beams perfectly secure or prohibit the use of the deck for this sport. The Court therefore held the defendants guilty of negligence.

The question of contributory negligence by the plaintiff, however, had to be considered. Dr. Pederson's description of the accident was quoted, and the contention that the plaintiff's action in unnecessarily throwing the ball upward constituted negligence. The Judge, however, pointed out the nature of the game in which the plaintiff was engaged, and that he had no reason to believe the beam would be dislodged even though the ball struck it. The Court found no difficulty in reaching the conclusion that the plaintiff was not guilty of contributory negligence.

With regard to the amount of damages to be awarded the plaintiff, he was entitled first of all to recover the amount of his actual damages, such as his expenses for medicine, hospital bills medical attendance. These expenses, according to the undisputed testimony in the case, amounted to the sum of seven hundred fifty (Tls. 750) taels, or $555 gold dollars. In addition to actual damages, plaintiff is entitled to recover such an amount of money as will reasonably and fairly compensate him for the injuries which he sustained, and the pain and suffering which he endured as a result of such accident, and the Court therefore find and assess plaintiff will be sufficient to fully and fairly compensate plaintiff for all the injuries which were inflicted upon him at the time of the accident, and for the pain and suffering which he has endured as a result of such accident, and the Court therefore find and assess plaintiff general damages in such an amount.

"It is, therefore, ordered and adjudged that the plaintiff have and recover judgment against the above named defendants, and each of them, in the sum of two thousand five hundred fifty-five (G.$2,555) gold dollars, together with his costs in this action."

Report Of Arms Dealings In North Held Groundless

Peking, August 25.—Several weeks ago reports reached Peking of an alleged consignment of arms and ammunition of American make having reached Tientsin for the Chihli Party. The reports appeared in the Chinese press, and the Japanese had a report giving minute details in some respects and containing glaring omissions in others.

It was stated that a contract had been signed on the premises of the American Legation between representatives of Marshal Wu Pei-fu and General Feng Yu-hsiang on the one hand, and the representative of an American arms manufacturing company on the other for the supply of 12,000 rifles to cost $600,000, 10,000,000 rounds of small arms ammunition, to cost $850,000, 1,500 pistols at $97,000, 200,000 rounds of pistol ammunition at $12,000, 250 machine guns $1,675,000, to be delivered within two and half months at Sanchiatien. This information and the copy of an alleged huchao sealed by the Ministry of War, the Minister of War and the Chinese Government were forwarded to the American Legation by the Japanese Legation. Both the contract and the Huchao were dated April 20, 1024. No information could be given as to the name of the boat on which the arms and ammunition had arrived at Tientsin, or the date of arrival.

The American Legation knows nothing of the matter, but immediately instituted inquiries, and on the 25th instant sent a Note to the Japanese Legation saying that it had made inquiries relating to the authenticity of the huchao and it had now been informed by the Vice-Minister of War that no such huchao was ever issued, and that he was of opinion that no such incident had occurred. The Vice-Minister of War has since confirmed his statement in writing, saying that the report that had appeared in the press that huchao (Iu No. 1940) had been issued by the Ministry of War was entirely without foundation of fact.

Furthermore, the Customs authorities at Tientsin had notified the Ministry of War that no such incident had occurred. The note concluded by saying that it seemed hardly necessary to inform the Japanese Legation that neither the American Government nor the American Legation in Peking was in any way implicated in such a transaction.

During the interval between the circulation of the original report and the American reply to the Japanese Legation exhaustive inquiries were made by several correspondents both in Peking and Tientsin, and no corroboration of the report could be obtained.

Tsingtao Governor Is Dinner Host To All Naval Officers

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tsingtao, August 25.—A dinner party unique in the annals of Tsingtao took place here on Friday when officers of the British, Japanese, French and Italian men-of-war, now lying at anchor in Kiaochow Bay, were the guests of Governor Kao En-hung. It was a brilliant and cosmopolitan gathering. Nearly all the visiting naval officers were present, and also Admiral Wen Shou-teh, Deputy Governor Hsiao, Mr. Chang, Chief of Police, Mr. Tien, representative of Marshal Wu Pei-fu, and the British and Japanese Consuls. At the conclusion of the dinner, the Governor made a speech of welcome.

Admiral Sir Arthur Leveson was spokesman for the visiting naval officers. He warmly thanked the Tupan and congratulated him upon the progressive character of his administration and the competent men with whom he had surrounded himself.

There are thirteen vessels in Admiral Sir Leveson's squadron. Two French men-of-war are here, and there are also the Japanese battleship Tone and an Italian cruiser. In addition several divisions of the American Asiatic Fleet are expected within a few days. These vessels are now at their summer base at Chefoo.

Not for years has Tsingtao seen so many visiting warships as this summer.

Commercial News

Economic And Financial Conditions During July

By Dr. E. Kann, of the Chinese American Bank of Commerce.

THE NEW TRADE MARKS LAW:

In our report covering the month of December 1923 mention was made of the impending promulgation of a new Chinese law relating to the registration of trade marks at a special bureau at Peking. The said law became operative at the beginning of 1924, but met with enormous opposition on the part of the foreign Chambers of Commerce. Arguments against the new law were very numerous, but the principal objection was to be found in the determination of the various foreign commercial bodies not to abandon the rights which have been conferred on them by previous treaties. In accepting the provisions of the new Chinese Trade Marks law most of the foreign merchants argued that they would thereby give up privileges enjoyed by them in virtue of extraterritorial rights.

Toward the end of July three foreign experts were engaged in London to advise and assist the Peking authorities. By the end of July a rather small number of trade marks had been registered at Peking, applicants belonging to almost all nationalities.

Another obstacle in connection with the smooth operation of the new law is the proclamation on the part of the Canton government, and likewise of the Mukden government, both of which state that they will not recognize as valid trade marks registered in Peking.

CHINESE INTERNAL LOANS:

Notwithstanding the fact that redemption of internal loan bonds is behind schedule to the extent of over 7½ Million Dollars, there was a remarkable appreciation in the market price of all internal bonds. The 6 percent consolidated issue improved within 4 months by about 60 percent, viz. from 50$ to 80$. Conditions in China, political as well as economic, showed no improvement during the first seven months of 1924, and yet Internal Government Bonds rose enormously and remained at their rather high levels.

In attempting to analyse the underlying causes the following explanations are probably acceptable.

(1) The majority of the internal bonds were originally in the hands of Chinese Banks. These latter have now sold out, and the bonds are at present held by a wide net of private investors.

(2) Chinese insurance companies, who have no need to realise all their securities quickly, had invested considerable sums in internal bonds in recent years. As many of these have been acquired at prices, providing a 12 percent interest rate, it is obvious that the bonds are strongly held.

(3) China has introduced a postal savings department in 1917. The said department is certainly investing in government bonds, and requirements from this source are bound to grow as time goes on.

(4) Forward transactions on Chinese Stock Exchanges require payment of margins. Internal bonds are tendered and accepted as margins. They are also tendered as guarantee for the fulfillment of commercial obligations, as compradore guarantees, etc., and in this way a wide channel has been opened for additional uses.

(5) Internal bonds are admissible as reserve for a certain percentage of bank notes issued. This line is capable of absorbing a very large amount of bonds.

(6) Schools often invest their foundation funds or reserves in Government Bonds, attracted by the high return obtained.

(7) Through constant drawings the cover allotted as security to the entire issue of internal bonds is now made available to a total, which is being automatically reduced. In other words, while the amount of loans outstanding is being reduced from year to year, the security remains equal in size.

These are merely a few examples of uses of Chinese Government Bonds. These will suffice to show that given good Government, there would be much room for a large issue of internal bonds. On the other hand it must be admitted that the rise in price of those bonds was to a certain extent connected with speculation, so that a reaction, especially on the occasion of issues, is more than likely to take place.

The following is a statement (as issued by the Chinese Economic Bulletin) of the National Consolidated Loan Service for the month of June, 1924:

The following remarks, statements and figures, are taken from the report on China's foreign trade during the past year, as compiled by the Statistical Department of the Maritime Customs. In his general observations he says that conditions in Europe have not changed considerably to the better. He points to the acute financial situation of some of the countries and to the heavy taxations there, both of which must necessarily retard the return to normal conditions.

With regard to China the report referred to has following to say:

"Turning to an examination of conditions in China, it must be noted first of all that in spite of the still unsettled state of the country, the foreign trade of China in 1923 was valued at Hk. Tls. 1,676,320,203, which represents an increase of Hk. Tls. 76,378,720 over the preceding year's total. The revenue collected by the Maritime Customs offices also exceeded the 1922 total, the increment in this case being Hk. Tls. 4,870,001. The value of imports declined by about 23 million taels, but export sincreased by nearly 100 million taels. These figures speak for themselves. They prove abundantly that, notwithstanding all appearances to the contrary, China's trade is still forging ahead and that the export trade has done well even though adverse circumstances impede free transportation of merchandise in the inland districts. Trade in general was comparatively dull during the greater part of the year. Prices in all markets fluctuated considerably, and the disposition, here in business was caution in everything. The lamentable earthquake disaster in Japan on September 1 gave a temporary stimulus to the markets in China. Excitement, however, soon subsided as the result of the energetic measures taken in Japan to cope with the situation. In October China markets had regained their normal condition and maintained a firm undertone. Silk and tea had good seasons; but, as regards imports, cotton piece goods decreased, chiefly owing to higher cost of production in the manufacturing centers and increasing competition from the products of Chinese mills.

"In the domestic political field little progress can be reported during the year. Unification of the several provinces under one Central Government has not yet been effected, in spite of strong efforts from various quarters. Dr. Sun Yat Sen, the well-known Southern leader, arrived in Canton from Shanghai on February 21, following the retreat of his opponent General Chen Ch'iung-ming to his native city Waichow, and was still at the head of affairs in the South at the end of the year. Open warfare was engaged in by the commanders of the military factions in several provinces, more especially Hunan and Szechwan. Notable events which occurred during the year were the resignation of His Excellency President Li Yuan-hung, who had entered upon his second term as President of the Republic of China on June 11, 1922, and the election of His Excellency Ts'ao Kun as his successor on October 5, 1923. The passing of the Constitution by the Peking Parliament on October 10 also deserves to be mentioned.

"As already noted above, the revenue collection by the Customs again exceeded the previous year's total, but it is doubtful whether this would have been the case without the increase in the Import Tariff which took effect from January 17."

THE CUSTOMS REVENUE

	Haikwan T
for 1923 amounted to	63,504,251
compared with 1922	58,634,250
compared with 1921	54,462,644

Although there was an increase of T4,800,000, the result for 1923 is nevertheless disappointing, as the revised import tariff (calling for an effective 5 percent duty) had been in force during the entire year.

VALUE OF CHINA'S FOREIGN TRADE

1923	Hk. T
Imports	923,043,000
Exports	752,917,000
Excess of imports over exports	170,486,000
Total trade	1,676,320,000

1922	Hk. T
Imports	945,050,000
Exports	654,892,000
Excess of imports over exports	290,158,000
Total trade	1,599,942,000

1922	Hk. T
Imports	906,122,000
Exports	601,255,000
Excess of imports over exports	304,867,000
Total trade	1,507,377,000

This table shows clearly that not only has the foreign trade of China steadily increased, but the adverse trade balance has in 1922 been reduced from the previous year by nearly Haikwan Tls. 120,000,000, owing to an increase of China's exports to the extent of 100,000,000 Taels and a decrease of her imports by 20,000,000 Taels.

Correction and Apology

By The China Press

"The China Press makes a correction. In last Sunday's (August 17th) paper there appeared an advertisement of the Oculists' Institute Company, and at the top of the advertisement there was printed a line of type containing the letters, "NRPTZOE" The size of type in which this mystic word was printed should have been of a size suited for reading by normal eyes at a distance of 20 feet. Through a mistake of the advertising department the size of type used was larger than was intended. It should be read by normal eyes at approximately 70 feet. Test letters in eye examination are based upon a 20 foot arc which was invented by Snellen in 1865. In our reprint of the advertisement on last Friday (August 22nd) the orginal 20 foot Snellen type was used in the O. I. C. advertisement. We are glad to take this opportunity of apologising to the O. I. C. for the mistake in the ad and also to our subscribers who may have become confused by testing their eye-sight thereby."

From The China Press, August 24th.

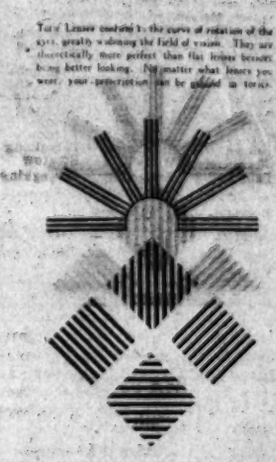
Here is the correct size type for Testing the vision at 20 feet.

N R P T Z O E

How Well Can You See?

Stand Twenty Feet from this advertisement, pinned to a wall, level with your eyes.

You should be able to read the large black letters at the top with each eye separately.



Now, hold this fourteen inches away from the eyes in a natural reading position. You should read the type in the margin easily with either eye.

These lines in margin should appear equally black in all directions and at any distance with either or both eyes. If some lines appear blacker or of unequal density you have astigmatism—a malformation of the eyeball which can only be corrected by glasses ground to your individual requirements.

Do your Eyes Tire Easily? Do they water in the wind or sun? Do you "squint" in the sunlight?

There are many, who, with apparently normal vision, suffer with headaches and eye-strain caused by weak eye-muscles and both eyes not focusing together. Such muscular Imbalance can only be corrected by proper glasses.

Many do not need glasses to See with, but only to Relieve the Strain of Seeing—the only safe and sure way is to

China Cotton

Messrs. A. B. Rosenfeld and Son, Inc., state in their report:

During the past week, it looked as if cotton were of absolutely no intrinsic value and the market was pounded down by disgusted bulls and elated bears until November cotton in the Exchange was well under Tls. 38, prices showing at one day a gross decline of about one tael, making a total decline of about two and a half taels from the level of a week ago. The chief feature of the recent decline was in sympathy with the militaristic squabble between Chekiang and Kiangsu Provinces and the easy tone of Mid-Americans as well as the tightness of the money market. Market closed weak with prices still fluctuating in a nervous and erratic manner.

Regarding the crop conditions, we have pleasure in reporting another favorable week for the progress of the crop throughout the principal growing centers with the exception of Shantung and Chihli Provinces.

From the foregoing conditions of the market, we feel that in times like the present, caution must be recommended.

Yarn.—During the past week the yarn market has had a generally downward tendency, showing, at one time, a gross decline of two to three taels, making a total decline of nine to ten taels for near deliveries and six to seven taels for forward during the week due to the reasons as stated above. About 1,000 bales in all counts have been booked for export during the week.

SPUNT & CO.'S REPORT

Messrs. J. Spunt and Co.'s report states:

Our market during the past week was practically devoid of any transactions for spot deliveries yet prices on any available old crop cotton evinced no receding tendency and maintained a firm attitude. However, a large volume of business may be recorded in futures at the local cotton exchanges, where the rates, after undergoing varied fluctuations, culminated in showing a decline on the whole of about Tls. 2 per picul lower than that ruling during the previous period.

This weakening tendency in the value of the local new season staple is most probably the resultant effect of the bearishness now being displayed in both Mid-Americans and Indians coupled with the continued favorable weather conditions now prevailing in the cotton belt of the world and in the event of no untoward circumstances occurring until after the cotton crop shall have been harvested, there is every likelihood of still lower prices being experienced as the season progresses.

Tone of the market: Easy.

THREE CHINESE TRAPPED WHILE RUNNING ARMS

Eight Revolvers Seized From Firemen Aboard S. S. Gleniffer

Three Chinese firemen employed on the s.s. Gleniffer were taken into custody by police of the Wayside station Thursday night on charges of bringing ashore contraband arms and eight .38 caliber revolvers were confiscated.

The first of the trio, Yau Ah-yi, was picked up by Naik 246 on Broadway shortly after 11 o'clock at night. He had in his possession four .38 caliber revolvers.

Fifteen minutes later, Special Police Watchman 137 and Chinese Watchman 1 arrested two other Chinese firemen from the Gleniffer at the China Merchants lower wharf. Search showed that each of the two men was carrying two .38 caliber revolvers. The men said that they had bought the weapons in Antwerp, and that there were 400 rounds of ammunition hidden on the ship.

The trio appeared in the Mixed Court yesterday before Mr. Whitamore, British, Assessor, and Magistrate Oen, and were sentenced to eighteen months' imprisonment each, with confiscation of the weapons.

A sentence of a year's imprisonment for assisting in the sale of firearms was also handed down in the Mixed Court yesterday, Mr. Jacobs, American Assessor, and Magistrate Loh presiding. The convicted man, Lok Kau-kyi, an accountant, was arrested last week, and the case remanded. He was yesterday found guilty of aiding and abetting.

Anxiety In Japan Over Epidemic Of Spinal Meningitis

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, August 29.—Considerable apprehension has been aroused here over the steady spread of an epidemic, which is a peculiar form of spinal meningitis. A few cases occur annually but this year it has been particularly virulent, and accompanied by an unusually high mortality.

A peculiarity of this disease, which up to the present physicians are unable to understand, is that the victims in the early stages show symptoms of meningitis, after which they fall into a comatose condition, remaining in such till death.

The most prominent doctors of Tokio have been despatched to the affected districts, which include many of the provinces in West Hondo, and the Tikushima and Kagawa provinces of Shikoku.

The mortality everywhere ranges from 30 percent to 60 percent, mostly among the aged. Latest reports from Kanawa, which is very seriously affected, record 750 deaths out of 1,400 cases.

Ten cases of meningitis, one of which was fatal, have been recorded in Yokohama and also 69 cases, of which 23 were fatal, in Kobe, according to latest reports.

The Work Of The China Medical Board

THE far-reaching importance of the work of the China Medical Board, or, as it is popularly known, the Rockefeller Foundation, in the improvement of medical education and in research work along the lines of public health improvement in China is shown in the current report of the Board which has just been received from Mr. Roger S. Greene, Director, who has his office at No. 61 Broadway, New York.

The report deals in detail with the Peking Union Medical College and the work of that institution in medical education and shows how the number of students is steadily increasing, having grown from 22 in 1921 to 55 for the session which closed last June for the medical college, with 56 in the premedical school, 16 in the school of nursing and 79 in the graduate department, making a total enrolment for the last year of 204. The fact that this school requires a thorough knowledge of the English language before students are admitted and that its work is of just as high character as the leading medical schools of America and Europe, makes the number of students which have enrolled quite remarkable considering the fact that the school has been in operation but a few years.

Among the professors who have been brought out to the school during the past year we find the names of specialists from several different countries. In addition to men from leading institutions in America such as Johns Hopkins and Harvard, there is listed a famous brain specialist from the Dutch Central Institute for Brain Research, an expert in ophthalmology from Vienna, and, in addition to this, there has been an exchange of lecturers with the South Manchuria Medical College of Dairen, and after the earthquake in Japan last fall the college invited eight Japanese medical scientists to go to Peking to continue their researches in the college laboratories. Short courses providing opportunity for special study and investigation were provided during the year for 41 Chinese and 38 foreign doctors, nurses and technicians.

In addition to the work conducted at the college, studies of special diseases prevalent in various parts of China were conducted at the town of Hsuchowfu on the Tientsin-Pukow Railway and at Soochow in Kiangsu Province. The number of patients treated in the hospital in Peking were 3,403 in the in-patient department and 77,301 in the out-patient division.

An important phase of the Foundation, of course, is the assistance extended to other medical schools in China, which has the effect of broadening the field and usefulness of the medical work and also the important effect of raising the standard of medical instruction throughout the country. Among the schools which participated in special grants were the Shantung Christian University at Tsinan, which enabled that institution to merge its medical work with that of the North China Union Medical College for Women. This brought about the first experiment in co-education in an institution of higher education in China. Another institution which received a grant was the Hunan-Yale College of Medicine at Changsha and another was the Nankai University, a Chinese institution at Tientsin. The Peking (Yenching) University also received assistance in the construction of buildings to be used for studies in physics, chemistry, geology and biology. The National Southeastern University, another Chinese institution, also receivel a grant for laboratory buildings for the study of physics and chemistry. Other institutions receiving help in the construction and equipment of science buildings were the Fukien Christian University, Canton Christian College, College of Yale at Changsha, Shanghai College, Soochow University, Tsing Hua College, Nanking University, Amoy University and so on. The final result of this work in raising the standard of the study of the sciences and of medicine and of public health in China is almost beyond estimation. Another phase of the work consisted in an appropriation of a considerable sum for the purchase of X-raw equipment for various hospitals.

That the work of the Foundation is beginning to tell in its influence is indicated in the following paragraph from the report:

"Gratifying as is this evidence of appreciation in certain communities of what foreign institutions are trying to do, a still more satisfactory development has been in the establishment of improved hospitals by the Chinese themselves. Reference has been made in the reports of previous years to the Central Hospital in Peking and of the Chinese Red Cross General Hospital in Shanghai. In 1923 there was under construction in Mukden a Chinese Government hospital of 450 beds which was to cost about Mex. $600,000 when fully equipped."

The problems of the modern hospital in China are also referred to in the report:

"In spite of these encouraging evidences of progress, hospitals in China still labor under a disadvantage in that the people at large have even less understanding than have western communities of the nature and methods of modern medical science. They fail, in particular, to appreciate the need for dealing with disease as promptly as possible. Distrust of a strange foreign institution leads many to go to it only as a last resort. Consequently both the patients and the hospitals are subject to great expense for protracted treatment of many conditions which might have responded quickly to treatment in the early stages."

The report closes with a statement regarding assistance which has been rendered to the Council on Health Education which is maintained by the National Medical Association, the China Medical Missionary Association and other bodies. The total budget of this organisation for this year amounts to Mex. $70,000 and its chief work now is in connection with students in middle schools and colleges and also in general school hygiene and child welfare.

The Late A. G. Stephen

NO one we are sure will read of the death of Mr. A. G. Stephen with anything but the keenest regret, and deep sympathy for the family he leaves to mourn him. Forty years service is a large part of any man's life; it is even more in the Far East and when a man has done so much, for his country, his bank and his community there is all the more regret that he could not have enjoyed some years in contemplation of the work he has done. Of his service to the Hongkong and Shanghai Bank enough will be found in another column to show that he was a brilliant successor to those able men who went before him. And if Sir Owen Cameron, Sir Thomas Jackson, and Sir Newton Stabb did, as they undoubtedly did, much to establish this imposing British bank on the foundations which it has today, it is to Mr. Stephen, its late chief manager, that credit must be given for the manner in which he has carried on their work.

For his period of management, especially in Shanghai was not of the easiest, at a time when war had shaken the world to its depths. And yet under his spirited leadership the Shanghai branch of this bank passed through the troublous times which afflicted the world and emerged even more strongly established and more than ever a credit to the country to which it belonged. It would be idle to dwell on his other activities in view of the immense worth of his life's work, were it not for the fact that they showed the human side of a man who deserves to rank amongst the builders of Empire. For amongst these last are not only those who have extended the territorial limits of the country, but also those who by their lives and works have enhanced its prestige and honor. Such a man was A. G. Stephen. And as Sir Ronald Macleay rightly said at the opening of the new offices here, they are

> "surely the most fitting and lasting memorial to his association with Shanghai and to his management of the bank."

There was about him a rich, rare humor, a kindliness of spirit for which there are many to bless his memory today. Nor did the service he gave the bank preclude him entirely from other interests. His own nationals welcomed him as president of the St. Andrew's Society, the Race Club found in him an enthusiastic supporter, and when he left us to go south, the Colony in Hongkong found him a willing servant as an unofficial member of their Legislative Council to which he brought a ripe knowledge of affairs.

It does not matter to what nationality we belong; we are all capable of honoring a great man and Mr. Stephen deserves that description. Only those who had intimate knowledge of him can appreciate his untiring zeal, the thoroughness with which he carried out a task to which he had put his hand. His inclinations did not bring him into municipal service, but he was, nevertheless, a servant of the community. His help was rarely denied when wanted and many an undertaking in this settlement was a success because of the sympathy he bore it and in taking leave of a man who served his country well, who did his share in enhancing its dignity may we express the hope that his memorial will ever be found in the splendid building on the Bund which must indeed have marked the realisation of his dreams. His death is a distinct loss to the community and, perhaps in that thought may be found some consolation for those who more nearly mourn his death.

A Bright Spot In China

IT is not a little stimulating to discern a gleam of hope amid the impenetrable gloom in which the affairs of this country are shrouded. While disruptive forces are at work which are gnawing at the very vitals of the country, activities have not altogether ceased along channels of constructive endeavor. The Engineering Department of the China International Famine Relief Commission has recently issued a report on the engineering accomplishments on behalf of famine relief during the past three years which is most illuminating. Not only have sketch maps of the areas concerned been provided, but a map of China is also included on which are indicated the various projects in red, while a tabulated sheet of costs completes a very interesting precis which might be studied with advantage by the general public.

Analyzing some of the figures it appears that the new roads constructed by the American Red Cross and the China International Famine Relief Commission since 1920, if put end to end, would provide two trunk highways reaching from Shanghai to Chungking in the heart of Szechwan, and from Peking to Canton. In addition to this 2,000 miles of new road, over 750 miles of repairs were also effected, the total cost being over $4,000,000, this sum providing food and shelter for both flood and drought sufferers. In providing water for regions subject to drought, some twenty-five miles of irrigation ditches were constructed at a cost of $51,000 and 6,672 wells were sunk at a cost of $405,000. Over 270 miles of drainage ditches were dug or cleaned at a cost of $220,000, while 500 miles of river dykes were built or repaired at a cost of more than $1,500,000.

The most notable expenditure on conservancy work was probably that in Shantung on the Yellow River, where the China International Famine Relief Commission contributed $360,000 towards the reversion of that river at Lichin, where it had broken its dykes and flooded the surrounding country. All in all, the Engineering Report thus presented is an interesting testimonial to the past achievement of the China International Famine Relief Commission and gives hope of a wide extension of its usefulness in the future. Incidentally, it suggests that the field of constructive endeavor in China is virtually limitless if only the officials would make up their minds to range the enormous man-power of China on the side of productive enterprises calculated to do the greatest good to the greatest number. The natural resources of this country would yield an infinitely richer prize than the clash of arms, and even on the narrow ground of self-interest, the militarists stand to gain much if they decided to beat their swords into ploughshares and their spears into pruning hooks. It must surely be mortifying to China's true friends and and well-wishers to see the masses of the people in this country eke out a miserable existence year in and year out in the valley of the shadow when vast tracts of fertile land are suffered to lie fallow because the officials are too indolent to do anything themselves and too selfish to permit foreigners to develop the matchless resources of this country.

Seeing With X-Ray Eyes

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS

One of the latest forms of mystification that has been pushed to the front is the "X-Ray Eye." The performer in this case professes to be able to see objects and to read print on writing through solid, opaque bodies or screens.

Without claiming the intervention of disembodied spirits, the practitioners of this art, or the exploiters of them, affirm that their eyes have a supernormal penetrating power, and are able to "see through" considerable thicknesses of metal, or of solid wood.

In some cases at least, they claim that they must have a fairly bright daylight in order to succeed. This is urged as proof that the agency that enables them to read "through" solids is a radiation akin to ordinary light but capable, like the X-ray, of penetrating opaque bodies.

Since the precise functions of the complicated structures that make up the retina of the eye and its connections with the optic nerve have not yet been entirely disclosed to science, it is easy to persuade many persons of the possibility that certain eyes may have the power to utilise radiations which in ordinary eyes produce no visual effect whatever, and are not even perceived. So ignorance, like darkness, is full of phantasms invented by the imagination.

There is, of course, no question about the variability of the sensitiveness of the eye. Even the eyes of the same person at times vary remarkably in this respect. And there is reason to believe that some animals, such as cats and owls, can see quite clearly in what to human eyes seems impenetrable obscurity. But there is no evidence that any animal whatever can use for visual purposes any form of radiation other than that which produces light for us.

Other of their senses besides that of sight seem to have a degree of sensibility exceeding anything known in human experience; yet their most remarkable performances can all be explained without invoking the agency of any kind of physical sense not possessed by man. Some animals may have unknown senses, responding regularly to vibrations that pass us as unnoticed as the radio waves when not caught by a receiving instrument—but it is purely assumption to affirm that they actually do possess such senses.

In the case of "X-Ray eyes," or "X-Ray vision"—which of course are merely picturesque phrases—it is to be noticed that some at least of the persons who pretend to read through metal screen describe their sensations not so much as seeing as perceiving mentally.

This puts them in the class of clairvoyants, and allies them with telepathy. They get an impression of what is written, and since the impression relates to things naturally belonging to the realm of vision, what they "see" mentally is referred to the physical eye.

Last year while in France I came upon a reported case of supernormal seeing, in which the seer described in considerable detail the gradual development in his consciousness of the perception of the concealed objects that he was supposed to see through intervening obstacles, or in circumstances where ordinary vision could be of no avail.

I believe that in all these cases there will be found the same equivocal character in the visions that marks clairvoyant and telepathic performances in general. Self-deception is probably much more common in such things than the public imagines. And self-deception helps to spread the illusion by going hand in hand with manifest honesty.

If only some trained thinker and observer could be seized with a little temporary supernormalcy we might get an analysis that would be worth a hundred "expert investigations."

More Truth Than Poetry

BY S. E. KISER

Everything's wrong with this country once more;
Prices are fearful,
Tollers are tearful,
Rascals are bolder than ever before;
Bandits are gayly
Robbing men daily,
Pirates are watching to land on our shore.

Rum's flowing freely wherever we turn,
Crime is increasing,
Sharpers are fleecing
Lambs without showing the slightest concern;
The seeds are all rotting,
The plotters are plotting,
Living costs double the price we can earn.

Women grow wilder by day and by night,
Virtue's forgotten,
Everything's rotten—
Ah, but our troubles are soon to be light!
Candidates loudly
And bravely and proudly
Promise that plenty and peace are in sight.

Never before has the weather been worse;
Farmers are grumbling,
Merchants are mumbling,
Commerce appears to be geared in reverse;
Lawyers and laymen,
Truckmen and draymen
Try to convince us that life is a curse.

But all of our troubles will soon disappear;
Gladness is coming,
Things will be humming
Gayly along by the end of the year;
All of the zealous
Candidates tell us
They can work miracles—aren't they dear!

Waiting For Love Versus Grabbing at Marriage

BY BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Who Holds a Unique Position in the Writing World as an Authority on the Problems of Girls.

"We haven't much in common. I don't really care for him. Still, he is a good man and he would take care of me and keep me from thinking of the future with terror. I am thirty-one. I look young, but I feel youth slipping away. Don't you think I would be wise to stop dreaming and take what I can get?" asks Annette.

"Dan can't hold a job. He drinks. He isn't even decently polite to my widowed mother. But he worships me. He spends his whole salary on me when things are breaking right for him. He says if he had me to work for he would change. I have to confess that I don't love him. But no man has ever given me so generously of himself as Dan does. And I am almost thirty and not as pretty or attractive as I once was. Even when I was young I never had just the right opportunity. So wouldn't I be foolish to let this one slip?" writes Mayme J. G.

And almost as if she were answering them, Valerie D. sends me this little bit of personal history with permission to print it as a warning to other women as foolish as she was five years ago.

"I was just over a bad spell of sickness," she says, "I took stock of myself—thirty, sallow, thin; no style, not strong. Alone in the world with a thousand dollars health insurance, no job and no desire for one. I took my money and went to a Summer resort. There I met an old friend who asked me to marry him. He seemed to worship me. I knew he was not prosperous. I had nothing in common with him. But I was afraid he was my last chance. So I married him.

"Today I am earning $6,000 a year at work I love. My husband never keeps a job more than a month. He is lazy, shiftless, willing to let me provide, and critical because a friend of mine in the same firm has started a new department and is getting $2,000 more year than I.

"I am nagged at, bullied and taken advantage of by a man I cannot admire and never loved. I have recovered my health and my looks—and the one man in the world has come across my path. My religion does not permit of divorce.

"My man's principles do not permit of anything to harm me. So he is going to California to make things safer for both of us. And I am going on with the man I married because I was afraid to wait—and that is how I have missed the biggest thing life could ever have brought me."

Are you answered, Annette and Mayme—and all you women who fear that the years are going to rob you? Why shouldn't the years enrich you? If you were a scrawny, shy, unattractive girl, isn't the natural law of compensation and balance about due to work for you? You are entitled to your share of charm and beauty, and though it may be late in flowering, that doesn't mean that you are forevermore deprived of it. Any number of women go through the years minus a bit of charm and beauty and then come to a radiant lovely poise and serenity that outpoint any amount of youthful lure.

Mind and heart and soul grow and expand with the years. Fruit that was hard and sour when it was green may come to perfect mellowness as the sun ripens it. There is no logical reason for the fear of age that sends many women rushing into the wrong kind of marriage.

Women—and men, too—let themselves be duped by their longing for a mate. But why not wait to find that mate? Why haul down the flag of intelligence and wisdom and judgment and run up the banner of desire? If a woman of thirty marries because of her fear that she wont get another chance, she is foolish in her lack of faith.

But if she marries because her emotions rush her into the adventure, she is going to pay a heavy price for a yielding to the physical. And the worst of it is that she may not know, and certainly won't acknowledge what it was she let push her into a marriage that offered her no satisfactions but those of her physical nature.

Since we are thinking beings, we might as well bring a little intelligence to bear on the most important partnership life lets us form. The woman who wouldn't take a fool or a weakling into partnership in a thousand dollar business, will let him come into an unearned share of her life itself.

Don't marry any one you wouldn't take into partnership if you were of the same sex. Don't marry any one you don't both love and like.

Once Overs

BY J. J. MUNDY

Why worry over the mean things which are said of you, and which may come to you, when you know you are going straight and doing the right thing?

You cannot go through life without enemies, if you amount to anything.

If you are content to be spineless, a mollycoddle, a will o' the wisp, with no set ideas or principles, you might go on and on without making bitter enemies but what would you be worth to yourself or anyone else?

Stand for something which is worth while, and stick to it.

There is little, to this popularity stuff.

Get some fight into yourself.

Steer straight and let the backbiters continue their sport.

Even a man who is worsted in a fair and square fight has some respect for the man who has beaten him in an honest way.

But none has respect or strong personal regard for the lukewarm individual, who has not enough backbone to stand up for anything.

If you are sure of your ground and it is right, hold it.

Our Advertising

May be copied, our methods imitated,
But O.I.C. Service can never be equalled in the fitting of Comfortable-Becoming Classes at Reasonable Prices

Established two decades by one of the first foreign opticians in Shanghai, we are the first extensive and Largest Optical Advertisers in the Orient.

We were first to incorporate the Service of Oculist—Optometrist—Optician together with our own completely equipped manufacturing laboratory on the premises.

The O.I.C. has grown faster than any other local optician.

We were first to formulate and publish a Standard Guarantee of both our Examination and Glasses.

We were first to inaugurate a standard "one price" system on all frames—with prices marked in plain figures.

We were first to offer Genuine Sir Wm. Crookes' Toric Lenses ground to any prescription for $5.00 per pair, when others charge from $15 to $25.00.
We were first to institut a repair Service whereby we duplicate and replace any broken lense for $1.00—regardless of the prescription in genuine Toric, Flat, White or Crookes Glass.

We were first to inaugurate "No charge for Small Repairs"—"Lense Duplicated while you wait"—"Cases and Antiseptic Cleaners Free"—"No charge for adjustments—Springs or Screws."
Proof That O.I.C. is appreciated is in the fact that the leading business and professional men in China, including our Municipal Councillors are sponsors of O.I.C. Service and wearers of O.I.C. Glasses.

Hongkong Bank Head Is Dead

and one of the most important banks in the world.

For the past three years Mr. Stephen has resided in Hongkong, where the head office of the bank is located. He left for England in May of this year on a trip that was to combine business with an effort to improve his health which for some time had been declining. He was to have returned to China in November and his multitude of friends in the Colony and in Shanghai will mourn his sudden end which has prevented his return to this part of the world where the record of his success stands as his monument.

TRYING WORK IN WAR

Mr. Stephen was lauded for his able conduct of the bank's affairs particularly through the trying period of the war, during which time he was manager of the Shanghai branch, by Sir Ronald Macleay, H.B.M. Minister to China, in his speech at the opening of the bank's fine new premises on the Bund in June. The Hongkong and Shanghai Bank building here one of the finest buildings of its kind in the world, stands as a fitting and lasting memorial to the man who guided its affairs so ably during his stewardship.

It is difficult to refer to any phase of finance in China and the Far East in recent years without coming in contact with the constructive influence of Mr. Stephen. He was instrumental in the organisation of the New International Banking Consortium in 1920 when Mr. Thomas F. Lamont came to the Orient on behalf of the American Group of bankers. He assisted in the organisation of the British Group which is composed of the Hongkong and Shanghai Bank, Messrs. Baring Brothers and Company, London County Westminister and Parr's Bank, Messrs. J. Henry Schroeder and Company, the Chartered Bank of India, Australia and China, N. M. Rothchild and Sons, and the British Trade Corporation.

Mr. Stephen was present in London when the last annual meeting of the Consortium was held at which time it was voted to continue the organisation indefinitely with a provision for dissolution of the group upon one year's notice by the members. At the meeting in Paris on May 28, 1923, a long statement was issued setting forth the purposes of the organisation and showing most clearly that it was not the purpose of the organisation in any way to infringe upon the sovereignty of China, but that it was organised principally for the purpose of eliminating the old "sphere of influence" policy in respect to international financial operations in China.

A KEEN SPORTSMAN

Both in Shanghai and Hongkong Mr. Stephen followed sports with keen ardor. He was an ardent golfer and no less enthusiastic a follower of the fortunes of racing. He ran stables here and in Hongkong. He was steward of the Shanghai Race Club in 1917 and for several years thereafter. With Mr. A. W. Burkill he was joint owner of the pony "Vidan" which won the 1920 Spring Champions. Later, he became associated with Mr. Stitt, Shanghai manager for the Hongkong and Shanghai Bank, and ponies of the Stitt and Stephen stable have been and still are reigning favorities. "Cock O' the North" won the Hongkong Champions last China New Year, as well as the Chinese Cup in the Shanghai stakes in the autumn of 1923. "Bydand" another pony from this stable also won the Chinese Cup in the Shanghai Stakes in the 1920 Spring meet and deadheated with Gladiator in this race in the Spring of 1919.

Mr. Stephen was one of the founders of the Union Club of China, an organisation of American, British and Chinese business men in Shanghai which has been of great service in bringing about closer relations among these three nationalities. The Union Club of China was started during the latter part of the European War and came about through a letter sent out by the American Chamber of Commerce of Shanghai addressed to other Shanghai

Injured Man Gives Evidence Against Merkuloff Here

In the case against Merkuloff, the Russian "White" leader who is now in business in Shanghai, a Chinese who claims to have been beaten and kicked by the man gave evidence in the Mixed Court yesterday. The case, it will be recalled, is in connection with Merkuloff's business relations with Mr. Eichenbaum of the Tobacco Company here. In settlement of a claim which Merkuloff alleges against the company he is said to have gone with a gang of Russians to the factory on August 12 and to have forcibly appropriated as many cases of cigarettes as they could get hold of. Mr. Eichenbaum's daughter, who tried to stop them, was said to have been roughly handled, and a number of Chinese employees who came to the defense of their employed's property were alleged to have been beaten one man, Lieu Tsongwoo, having a rib broken.

Lieu gave evidence in Court yesterday. He had seen a disturbance at the gate of the factory and had gone there. He did not understand what the trouble was, but he saw several Russians trying to carry away cigarettes. He had told the coolies that the manager was out, and they should not let the men take the cigarettes away. He and others tried to prevent it, and were assaulted. The defendant, Merkuloff, had knocked him down and kicked him. He was badly hart, and later found he had a broken rib. He had never seen the defendant before, and did not know he was connected with the factory's business.

An X-Ray plate was produced by the complainants showing the broken rib. Dr. Rosanov, who treated Lieu, gave evidence of the man's injuries.

The case was adjourned for a further hearing.

'Canada' Entertains Shanghai Public At Tea And Inspection

C. P. O. S. Liner First Of Size To Navigate Whangpoo

The Canadian Pacific Steamships' giant liner Empress of Canada, the first steamer of her size to navigate the Whangpoo River as far as the China Merchants wharf, sailed up the river yesterday at noon and berthed at the Lower wharf. The liner will remain there until her departure for Hongkong and Manila at 10 o'clock this morning.

After docking the Canada was thrown open to public inspection and hundreds of Shanghai citizens were entertained to tea and were taken on a sight-seeing trip about the ship.

Just two hours after the Canada leaves port the Empress of Asia is due to dock at the same wharf and sails for Vancouver tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock carrying mail and passengers for Canada and America.

Conscripts Leap In Canal; Are Drowned

According to Mr. S. Guerry who is connected with the Episcopal Mission at Yangchow in northern Kiangsu Province on the Grand Canal and who arrived in Shanghai Thursday night a steady stream of junks, barges and steam launches carying troops of General Chi Shih-yuan have been passing Yangchow southward since Sunday. The first warning of impending trouble came on Sunday when all steam launches on the canal were commandeered for troop transportation. In addition to this the conscription of Chinese residents of the district irrespective of station was general for both the army and for transport work. One launch crowded with farmers was seized by the conscript officers and in the excitement about 60 jumped overboard into the canal and were drowned.

Thousands of refugees presumably from the Soochow area are also flocking north along the canal, according to Mr. Guerry. The ship on which Mr. Guerry came to Shanghai, one of the boats of the Japanese N. K. K. line was stopped on the Yangtsze at about 11 o'clock and forced to tie up until daylight when it was permitted to proceed.

League Receives A New Project On Disarmament

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, August 28.—The League of Nations has received a new project of a treaty of security and disarmament, which has been submitted by a group of Americans acting in their own name. The project contemplates outlawing any nation which commences aggressive action unless during a state of regular war. Signatories to the project will bind themselves to reduce armaments to a minimum, and to institute a disarmament conference which will meet every three years. Contracting Powers must pass on to the League of Nations all supplementary treaties for registration after interchange among themselves.

Turkey accepts in principle that the Council of the League of Nations undertake the solution of the problem of the delimitation of the frontier of Iraq.
